Monthly Focus

This month we will continue to learn about properties in science. We will observe objects within our classroom and describe the objects by their color, texture, size, and shape. We will also be celebrating Black History Month. Throughout February, we will be learning about many African American people who have contributed to our culture/country. We will be ending our month learning about our community.

Classroom Reminders

While learning about our community, we will also be reviewing our addresses. Please practice with your child at home by having them state their home address (city, state, street name, etc.)
